Parasites in Our Wetlands...Yikes!

Ralph Appy, Ph.D., Cabrillo Marine Aquarium

Flatworms in your liver, roundworms in your blood vessels, and spiny headed worms in your rectum? Be happy you aren't a longjaw mudsucker. Come and learn how parasites can exert control of their hosts, how the study of these freeloaders can lead to a better understanding of wetlands, and why we should care if one of these parasites was to go extinct.
