No Lab Coats Required: How Ordinary People Are Helping Scientists

Alexandria Warneke, Cabrillo National Monument; Angela Kemsley, WILD Coast; and Benjamin Downing, San Diego River Park Foundation

Did you know that snapping photos or taking a walk along the coast can help scientists? Come find out how three local organizations are teaming up with community members through Citizen/Community Science projects (Cabrillo BioBlitz, California Marine Protected Areas Watch, River Assessment Team and RiverBlitz). Community Science enables land managers to make decisions based on data that can benefit us all.
